Columbus, Ohio — Nationwide Better HealthSM, a leading provider of health and productivity management solutions, announced today that it has been awarded Case Management Accreditation from URAC, a Washington, DC-based health care accrediting organization that establishes quality standards for the health care industry. URAC's Case Management Accreditation standards require companies to establish a process to assess, plan and implement case management interventions.

“We are pleased to be recognized with the URAC Case Management Accreditation for our commitment to excellence in the industry,” said Dr. Neil Gordon, chief medical and science officer for Nationwide Better Health. “This truly underscores the promise made to our clients and partners by demonstrating compliance with national standards for case management services.”

The URAC Case Management Standards, which build on the Core Accreditation Standards, enable organizations to successfully:

- Train case managers
- Identify individuals for case management
- Manage and conduct case management activities in an efficient and professional manner
- Promote the autonomy of consumer and family decision making
- Maintain confidentiality
- Delegate responsibility

“We applaud Nationwide Better Health on achieving URAC Case Management Accreditation,” said Alan P. Spielman, URAC president and CEO. “In today’s health care market, URAC accreditation provides a mark of distinction for organizations to demonstrate their commitment to quality health care.”

Nationwide Better Health’s case management program assists individuals experiencing a catastrophic illness to optimize their condition through health education, support and coordination of health care services within the continuum of the member’s treatment plan and health plan benefits. The company has the ability to integrate its case management services with both its utilization and disease management programs.
